The Festival for the Horse — a special collaboration between North American Western Dressage and Friends of Sound Horses that took place August 9–13 in Mora, Missouri — featured clinics, demonstrations, competitions and camaraderie designed to promote positive horsemanship using the tenets of Western dressage. After hands-on participation, exhibitors saddled up to show off their skills in competition events that featured Western dressage, trail, ranch horse, in-hand, long-lining, freestyles and more.

Sagacious and Chase Hickok

Great to hear Al Guden's amazing Grand Prix dressage horse Sagacious has been released from quarantine after false positive tests threatened his future. Sagacious is home and happy, and rider Chase Hickok is smiling with relief at the end of the ordeal.

Congratulations to Horse Network! For the first time ever, millions of U.S. and Canadian show jumping fans can watch all 14 Longines FEI World Cup Jumping North American League (NAL) qualifying events live — and free of charge. Horse Network is live streaming the events thanks to a recently signed multi-year agreement with the Fédération Equestre Internationale (FEI).

Equus Coaching

On October 7–8, 2017, join master facilitator Kasia Roether and Equus Coach Jutta Thoerner at a private, quaint ranch by Nacimiento Lake, Paso Robles, California, and engage in the transformative power of Equus Coaching. Experience sharing and implementing nature's wisdom about being at peace despite any circumstances. Witness horses helping people reconnect with their inner source of love and strength, and partake in others' personal discovery and growth. This event is for physicians, counselors, leaders, team members, teachers, parents, and anyone interested in clear, immediate feedback to help you restore your sense of well-being amidst any kind of chaos. No previous horse experience (or riding) required. For questions or to sign up, email info@equine-experience.com or call 805-975-5443.
