Highlights From World Equestrian Center – Wilmington Spring I

Taylor St. Jacques (CAN) and her own Jakilly were victorious in the $25,000 Grand Prix sponsored by OTW Safety.

“Jakilly came to me in December of 2021. Tal Milstein sent her to me to develop and sell. I campaigned her in 2022 and brought her to the FEI level over the summer. I jumped her all the way up to a five-star 1.50m class. This winter she was purchased for me so she is officially mine and here to stay! It has been so much fun bringing her up.”

Megan Bash and Caparo, owned by Amber Ashba, captured the top prize in the $10,000 USHJA National Hunter Derby. The pair earned impressive scores of 89 and 87.

“Caparo is seven years old, and this is his first year in the Green Hunters. This is the first derby where I took the high options because he started the year quite green in the ring. He has come along beautifully; he is a great mover and great jumper. He is very brave with a lot of scope so it is really a pleasure to get to ride him.”

This week’s Sunday Spotlight shines on Canada’s Taylor St. Jacques of Ignite Equestrian based in Lexington, KY, and Wellington, FL. The talented young professional dominated as a junior rider, boasting a long record of accomplishments including the reserve championship at the ASPCA Maclay Finals in 2016 and the 2017 titles for the USEF Hunterdon Cup, USEF Pessoa Hunt Seat Medal Finals, WIHS Equitation Finals and R.W. Mutch Equitation Championship. St. Jacques continued to hone her skills while competing for Auburn University’s NCAA Division I Equestrian Team. We caught up with St. Jacques after her grand prix win Saturday evening to learn more about her transition to the professional ranks and the horses currently in her string.
